From the CIO's Desk

Turbulence on the political front pushes the market in a correctional phase post msci development; Investors need to take advantage of the current attractive levels; The market has all the reasons to retest its recent peak during the next year

Dear Investor,

With the closure of June 2017, the stock market marked the end of the fiscal year with reasonable returns whereby the KMI-30 and KSE-100 indices closed 18.80% and 23.24% up respectively on a YoY basis. However, the last month of the year tuned out to be an extremely choppy one whereby from the peak levels attained in the last week of May 2017, the KMI-30 receded 13.77% to close at 78,598 pts while the KSE-100 fell 11.94% to close at 46,565 pts by the end of June 2017. It is pertinent to note that post the month end, the very first working day of the new fiscal year continued to witness an extremely volatile stock market, whereby the KMI-30 slid by 4.37% while the KSE-100 fell 4.08% during a single day, taking the differential from their peak levels of May 2017 to 17.54% and 15.53% respectively.

Uncertainty on the political front on account of ongoing investigation by the Supreme Court sanctioned JIT kept the investors jittery and the market volatile. It is worth noting however, that this volatility has resulted in a significant correction post which the stock market's valuations have become quite attractive once again. It is pertinent to note here that after a significant gap, foreigners also became net buyers during the month of June 2017 with FIPI clocking in a net inflow of almost USD 8 million. This is a very important development showing that foreigners are also taking advantage of the current attractive valuation levels.

Outlook

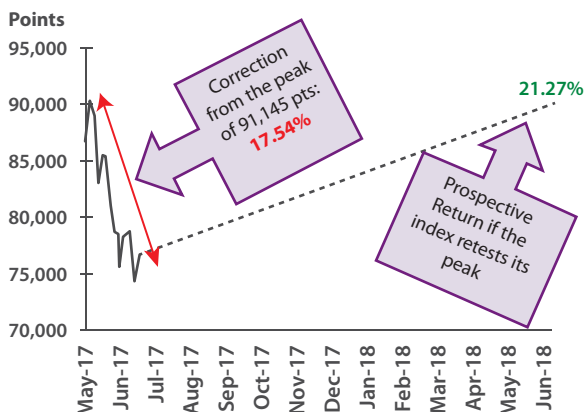

Despite the recent corrections, the stock market has still managed to post reasonable returns for FY17 as mentioned above. The key driver going forward is that the country's economic activity is still improving consistently whereby the government, after achieving a GDP growth of over 5% in FY17, is now targeting a growth of 6% for FY18.

Once the political headwinds subside, the market volatility is expected to recede to its normal range post which the indices may gear up to retest their peaks. The investment case for the above mentioned scenario has been highlighted in the graphs presented above; it shows that in case the KMI-30 and KSE-100 indices test their previous peaks during FY18 (which is a very plausible scenario) given the fact that the economic fundamentals are intact and improving, the investors will be set for a prospective return of over 15% during the new fiscal year. We would also like to highlight here that our flagship fund, Meezan Islamic Fund posted a return of 22.88% during FY17, outperforming its benchmark, the KMI-30 index by 4.09%. Given the market's volatile behavior, it is advisable for the investors to take/increase their exposure to equities through professional investment management services.

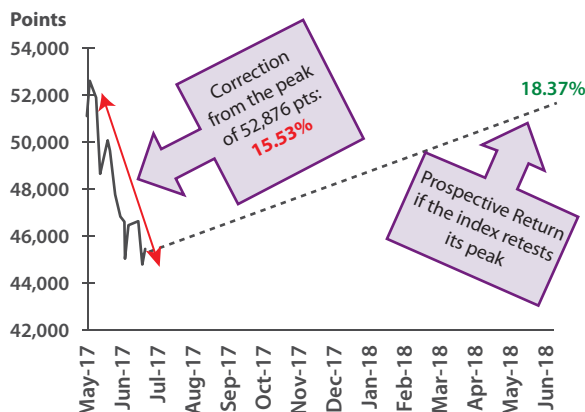

Investors with relevant risk profiles and investment horizons are advised to go through our Fund Manager Report hereunder for a detailed performance review of our mutual funds and select a scheme for investment according to their risk preference.

Stock Market Review

During the month of June 2017, the KSE-100 index declined by 7.96% to close at 46,565 points. Oil & Gas, Cements, Fertilizer and Power stocks remained major negative contributors. The average daily volume of the market was 241.6 mn shares, down by 28% on a MoM basis.

Foreigners reported a net buy of USD 7.9 mn in June. Individuals reported a net sell of USD 61 mn whereas Insurance Companies reported a net buy of USD 40 mn. During the month, uncertainty over the political scenario and selling by Frontier market funds kept the market under pressure. The JIT continued its investigations into the Panama case and major figures from the current government were summoned to answer questions. Investors remained wary of the political scenario and the ensuing retreat from the market caused stock prices to decline. Oil prices remained under pressure during the month due concerns over increasing supply from the US and Libya. WTI closed at USD 46.04/barrel, down by 5.2% on a MoM basis.

Going forward, we expect the market to gradually recover after witnessing a strong correction. Selling on the foreign side is expected to subside and local buying is expected to drive the market. A potential risk factor remains the outcome of the Panama case which would be decided by the report of the Joint Investigation Team due early next month.
